Truckers, Helpers Advised by Heads To Slash Demands

10,000 Idle Drivers May Vote Against Cutting Down 25 Cents to 17½ Figure

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—Striking truckers are to decide today whether to reduce their wage demands in a move to break a 10-day deadlock with employers.

A union membership meeting has been called for this afternoon to consider the compromise formula, recommended by leaders of striking Local 807 of the A.F.L. International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

There were some indications, however, that the 10,000 idle New York city drivers and helpers might not approve the proposal, which calls for scaling down of wage-increase demands from 25 cents to 17½ cents an hour.

Late yesterday, about 1,000 members of the striking local, the city's largest, met in a vacant lot in lower Manhattan and voted overwhelmingly to stick by the 25-cent demand.

This figure was fixed by the union members as their "rock bottom" 10 days ago when they rejected an employer offer of a 15-cent hourly boost, and voted to walk off their jobs.

They were joined in the strike five days ago by 4,300 members of Local 478 in Newark, N. J., but about 1,000 of the New Jersey truckers were expected to return to work today after members last night ratified agreements with 16 independent trucking concerns.

May Sign Individually

It was reported that the New York city local also may be considering signing an agreement with individual employers, rather than holding out for a general accord with the major employer groups.

Several individual trucking concerns were believed ready to accept the compromise terms proposed by union leaders.

Mayor William O'Dwyer appealed to strike leaders to put newspaper on the list of critical items which truckers have agreed to keep rolling during the stoppage.

Paper Support of Dewey May Establish New Record

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—So many newspapers are supporting Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for the presidency that it may establish a modern record.

Reporting results of a preliminary survey, the Trade Magazine Editor and Publisher said yesterday that replies from two-fifths of the nation's dailies showed 69 per cent of them are backing Dewey.

This percentage would give Dewey more newspaper support than any other presidential candidate has had in five recorded campaigns.

Of the newspapers polled so far, 16 per cent are for President Truman and less than four per cent favor States Rights Democrat J. Strom Thurmond. Only two newspapers are behind Henry A. Wallace.

These figures compared with 60 per cent who backed Dewey against President Roosevelt in the

Groves Is Witness at Red Probe

Boss of Atomic Project Testifies Today Behind Closed Doors at U.S. Capitol

Thomas Says Group Had Very Good Day Thursday

Washington, Sept. 10 (AP)—Lieut. General Leslie R. Groves, wartime boss of the army's atomic bomb project, testified today at a House committee's investigation of an alleged atomic espionage plot.

The retired army officer appeared in response to an Un-American Activities Committee subpoena. He was questioned behind closed doors.

Asked by newsmen if he had any information of value to give the committee in its spy hunt, Groves said:

"I think I can tell them a great deal about everything for which I was responsible. Unlike a good many other people I am not dependent on files."

He said the main objective of the Manhattan project during the war "was to get the bomb so we could end the war and save American lives."

Security, he said, "was just a part of that job."

Groves, who lives in Darien, Conn., now is a vice president in charge of advanced research for the Remington Rand Company.

Earlier, committee members claimed to have struck pay dirt in their digging into the alleged atomic spy plot. Their findings are being kept secret as they probe for clues to public hearings beginning next Wednesday.

Good Day Reported

A seven-hour closed door session yesterday brought from Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-N.J.) the terse announcement that "this was a very important session" and the house Un-American Activities Committee made "substantial progress."

Thomas said he and Reps. Vail (R-Ill.) and McDowell (R-Pa.), who conducted the session, delved further into "a very important espionage case."

They called half a dozen more witnesses for today but would not reveal their identities nor what they were to be questioned about.

"We have agreed not to talk," McDowell told reporters, disclosing new committee policy.

However, it was learned that yesterday's witnesses included a chemist formerly employed on the atomic bomb project now a teacher in a private school in New York city.

The committee claims to have evidence that Russia got some wartime shipments of uranium compounds from this country and that atomic scientists leaked information to Soviet agents.

Another House committee heard yesterday that New York workers have been compelled by four executives to Henry A. Wallace's third party and to the support of the Communist newspaper, The Daily Worker.

Morris Goldner of New York, president of the Independent Fur Manufacturers Association, told a House labor subcommittee that the money requests were backed by "a timid plan."

Mary's Ave. Home Damaged by Fire

Roof of Wolfe House Is Aflame, Also Siding As Firemen Arrive

Fire which broke out in the roof of the home of Frederick Wolfe at 23 Mary's avenue about 8 a. m. today destroyed a large section of the roof and badly charred the attic rafters.

The exact cause of the fire has not been determined, but Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy reported that the fire apparently entered from the outside, since there was no evidence of a short circuit or of any point of origin within the attic.

Although hydrant streams were used extensively, damage by spreading canvas covers on the furnishings.

On arrival of the department, the entire roof was smoking and flames were eating at the rear corner of the building. Fire Chief Murphy summoned additional aid, and Cornell Engine 2 was dispatched to assist the crews of the pumper and aerial truck from the Central station. Because of the low water pressure in that area, which is considerably elevated over other parts of the city, the Cornell pumper was placed at the hydrant at Mary's avenue and Andrew street to boost the pressure.

The fire was discovered by members of the family, who were in the house at the time. The house, a two-story frame dwelling, is owned by Lester Hutton and leased by Wolfe, firemen said.

Extinguishing the fire was made difficult by the fact that asphalt shingles had been laid over wood shingles, and fire smoldered in the wood shingles, making it necessary for firemen to rip open most of the top covering of half the roof, Chief Murphy said.

Congressional Medal of Honor Holder Was Killed in Europe

When the body of Robert H. Dietz, Kingston's Congressional Medal of Honor holder, arrives in this city, tentatively scheduled for October 15, it will lie in state at the municipal auditorium until Sunday, October 17, when appropriate memorial services will be held, followed by burial in Wiltwyck cemetery, according to plans adopted by the planning and reception committee of the Kingston Veterans Association at a meeting Thursday night.

All veterans' organizations of the county will cooperate with Major General Robert Hasbrouck, also of Kingston, and others in providing appropriate and impressive ceremonies in honor of Staff Sergeant Dietz, who was killed in action at Kirchheim, Germany, March 29, 1945.

Present plans, subject to change, call for the arrival of the body on October 15; the closing of all businesses of the city on that date; a funeral service from the railroad station to the municipal auditorium; a memorial service, in which General Hasbrouck and clergymen of all faiths will participate along with all Ulster county veterans' groups, on Sunday, October 17; and military burial in the cemetery.

Arrangements are being completed by the committee with approval of Honorable O. Dietz of 37 Abbey street, father of the veteran.

70 Criminal Cases To Occupy Court During September

Term May Extend Into November; O'Grady Escape Case Is Slated Monday

The entire month of September will be devoted to the disposition of criminal cases if necessary, County Judge John M. Cashin announced yesterday, and if the calendar of 70 cases is not materially reduced by that time the present term of county court will be continued in November.

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn has prepared a regular criminal calendar of 44 cases and in addition there were 23 sealed indictments which will be opened and the defendants arraigned as quickly as possible. These cases will not be moved for trial immediately but District Attorney Bruhn indicated a desire to dispose of as many as possible at this time, keeping in mind the time required by attorneys to prepare cases for disposition.

Already four indictments against George Rahm, Jr., alias George Stellar, for assault and jailbreak have been disposed of. Two against Otto Goldman, alias Dan Mitchell for assault and jailbreak have also been disposed of through pleas of guilty. There are still pending three indictments charging Robert O'Grady with assault and jailbreak as well as grand larceny and three indictments against Morris Guralnick, alias Moe Gold, for assault, grand larceny and escape. 13,000 Filipinos Awaiting Rescue From Volcano's Fury

Manila, Sept. 10 (AP)—Deadly gases again tonight poured from erupting Hibokhibok volcano on Camiguin Island as about 13,000 Filipinos huddled in two southeastern ports awaiting rescue by ship.

The Philippine coast guard cutter Anemone messaged briefly that all towns on the tiny southern island were deserted except Sagay and Mahinog on the southern end. Both the cutter said, were jammed with refugees threatened by chlorine gas emitted by the volcano in its tenth consecutive day of eruptions.

The Anemone said there were increasing volcanic explosions from the mile high mountain during the night.

Philippine naval authorities considered that with the arrival of the U. S. Army transport General Weigel at dawn sufficient facilities would be on hand to evacuate the islanders. The 17,000-ton General Weigel was en route to Manila from San Francisco when a distress call from the island was broadcast.

The U. S. Navy offered to aid the Filipinos but no direct appeal to the navy has been made. Brief messages from Camiguin tonight failed to say how many of the islanders were removed today but conservative estimates here placed them at between one and two thousand.

President Elpidio Quirino's cabinet met to consider relief problems for the 50,000 islanders, most of whom have been evacuated to nearby Mindanao.

Word that all of the Filipinos still on the island were safe as late as 7 p. m. came from volcanologist Arturo Alcaraz, who, 18 hours earlier, broadcast an urgent appeal for ships to take off

Soviets Ask Notice on Each Trip by Transports to Yank Zone

Berlin, Sept. 10 (AP)—American officials rejected curtly today a Russian attempt to restrict the air lift supplying blockaded Berlin.

The Russian move came half a day after bloody street fighting in the tense city in which anti-Communists Germans dipped down the Red flag from the Brandenburg Gate and Russian and Soviet-controlled police fired into demonstrators, killing at least one. The Russians raised the hammer and sickle flag today over the gate.

The Russians sent a formal note to the four power Berlin air safety center demanding from the U. S. detailed prior notice on every flight made to Berlin. They asserted the data is needed "in the interests of safety."

An American Air Force official said the safety rules are adequate and the real intent of the Russians was "obviously another one of their efforts to get control of our flights into Berlin." The Americans have been flying upwards of 400 planes a day into the city with food, coal and other supplies, since Russia blocked the land approaches 79 days ago.

The American reply was that U. S. air lift pilots are abiding by established four power flying rules and that adequate information on their flights is being furnished the Russians daily.

The new controversy over flying through the corridors linking Berlin to western Germany was the first in about two months. Then the Russians also demanded fuller control over flights which cross their occupation zone, declaring air safety required this.

Capt. Edwin H. Gookin, U. S. representative at the air safety center, said his Russian opposite a Captain Gorchenko, submitted the note.

In it the Russians made the unusual claim that the allied air corridors traversing the Soviet occupation zone and linking Berlin with the west were "established by the Soviet commander." These corridors actually were established by four power agreement.

"Must Have Information"

The Russians said they must have more information on American flights "in the object of carrying out air safety for both Soviet and your aircraft."

The Soviets asked the Americans to "guarantee to submit beforehand—not later than one hour before takeoff of each flight to or from Berlin—the following information: Type of plane, pilot's name, altitude, takeoff time, route, detail and object of flight."

Gookin told the Russians the Americans intended to operate as before, "abiding by established procedures as agreed to or a four power basis." He pointed out to the Russians that much detail on flights is already being furnished daily through the air safety center and is available to the Soviets there.

Gookin said the tone of the Soviet letter "requesting guarantees" was firmer than any of their previous communications on this subject.

"It looks like they intend a squeeze," he said.

A senior American air officer said the Russians' real aim was to "get control over our flights."

He added: "If they got prior

Sharper Discord Seen as Result; Say Reds Want Denunciation Forum

Dewey Is Silent

Governor Declines Any Comment on Matter of Colonies

Washington, Sept. 10 (AP)—American officials today glumly predicted a new big four disagreement over Italy's war-lost colonies accompanied by fresh Russian propaganda blasts.

Diplomatic authorities said they see no chance for success when and if the foreign ministers council tackles the issue briefly in Paris next week.

Secretary of State Marshall cleared the way for such a meeting when he told the Soviet embassy late yesterday the United States is "wholly agreeable" to Russia's surprise suggestion.

But Marshall said Moscow's proposal the council reconvene today was impossible because of the time element. He offered to have a representative on hand Monday.

Britain and France previously had agreed to the Russian move. If the Kremlin okays the new date, it will leave the foreign ministers council only three days to work out agreement on a problem that has defied solution for the past year.

Under the Italian peace treaty, the four powers must hand the colonies question over to the United Nations General Assembly if they fail to reach an understanding by September 15. That will be one year from the date the pact with Italy went into effect.

The U.N. Assembly will meet in Paris September 21. Marshall will head the American delegation.

Those who predicted that only sharper disagreement will result from the proposed new four-power talks said they are convinced the Soviet objective is to gain a forum for additional denunciations of the western powers.

Marshall himself has said the meeting can serve no useful purpose and will be a waste of time unless Russia has new proposals to present.

Marshall has publicly urged that the three straggling African colonies of Libya, Eritrea and Somalia be returned to Italy under a United Nations trusteeship.

Britain and France opposed this. So did the United States without, however, offering an alternate proposal.

Meanwhile, there was new uncertainty over the bi-partisan agreement which both Marshall and President Truman have said has now been reached on the American position.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday that Marshall had been definite and correct in announcing this agreement. He declined to comment further when a reporter asked whether this means the administration has taken the line advocated by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the G.O.P. presidential nominee.

Dewey has urged that Italy be given a chance to help develop the resources of her former colonies under a "flexible" U.N. trusteeship.

Some hours after Mr. Truman's news conference, the State Department issued a statement saying:

"As on other questions, consultation has been informal in character. Ordinarily this does not lead to specific agreement on details unless legislative action is immediately involved."

"If this problem reaches the General Assembly, it will be dealt with by a bi-partisan delegation where the entire treatment of the matter will be bi-partisan in character."

Will Go to London

Los Angeles, Sept. 10 (AP)—Recovered from a polo, Curtis (Buzze) Boettiger, 18, grandson of the late President Roosevelt, prepared today to go to a United Nations conference in London. He plans to sail Monday with his grandmother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Boettiger was discharged yesterday from Corona Naval Hospital. He said he was feeling "just fine" after the mild attack of infantile paralysis, the disease which crippled his grandfather.

Wallace Speaks Tonight

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—A rainstorm last night forced postponement until tonight of Henry A. Wallace's scheduled address at Yankee Stadium. An estimated 30,000 persons already had filed into the stadium before Progressive party spokesmen announced the affair had been postponed. Afterward, crowds gathered in runways and sheltered parts of the bleachers to sing Wallace songs, but whistle-blowing ushers hurried them outside. Sponsors of the rally have predicted 70,000 persons—the stadium's capacity—would pay to hear Wallace and his running mate, Sen. Glen Taylor.

Kiwanis Honors 4-H Club Winners

Ulster County 4-H Club members who participated in the Kiwanis-sponsored poultry project were guests of the local club at its luncheon meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday.

About 40 of the 58 4-H Club boys and girls on the project attended as guests of the sponsoring Kiwanians, and it was announced that the $295 invested by members of the local service club represented a current net value of $1,800, exclusive of eggs produced.

Ribbons were awarded to William Schwarz, Jr., Stone Ridge; Robert Lasher, Lucas avenue extension; Frederick Christiana, Fairview avenue; and Edward Blatter, West Hurley, for the best packaged birds.

Bridge fans are accustomed to reading about the winning of bridge championships by Mrs. Peggy Golder and Charles J. Solomon of Philadelphia. However, some of the fans may not know that these champion players are now Mr. and Mrs. Solomon.

They kept up their winning streak by capturing the Adirondack mixed pair title at the tournament held recently at the Adirondack Inn, Sacandaga Park, N. Y. Mr. Solomon, by the way, has a bridge show on television in Philadelphia, which I understand is proving quite interesting to the bridge players of that territory.

Mrs. Solomon helped to win the Adirondack mixed pair championship when she executed a very neat endplay in today's hand. On the opening lead of the five of clubs East played the jack and Mrs. Solomon (South) refused to win the trick. East returned the queen of clubs. Again Mrs. Solomon held off with the ace and West played the deuce. Now came the seven of clubs. South won and West played the eight.

Mrs. Solomon then cashed her four top spade tricks and the ace and king of diamonds. Next she led her fourth club and threw West in the lead. West cashed the fifth club, and then he had to lead away from his king of hearts, which gave Mrs. Solomon her ninth trick.

Truman Electoral Vote Unlikely to Exceed 210

Preliminary Returns Indicate He Can Only Be Certain of 106 Electoral Votes

ARCHIBALD M. CROSSLEY

Director, THE CROSSLEY POLL

Preliminary returns from the first of the 1948 polls indicate that President Truman can only be certain of carrying nine states with a total of 106 electoral votes, and that he is unlikely to obtain more than 210. In order to be re-elected, he must have 266 or a majority of the 531 state electors.

The nine states include seven of the southern states, one mountain state and the President's home state of Missouri which first returns indicate to be in his favor. Two southern states now appear likely to choose the States Rights party. The others are in the tie-range, generally with a slight edge for Truman. In one, Truman has a small lead, and in another, Dewey is at present ahead by a very narrow margin.

If Truman takes all of these close states and those now regarded as safely Democratic, he will have a total of 210 electoral votes. In order to win, it will be necessary for him to find 56 more. A study of the relative standings of all other states would indicate that, unless Wallace withdraws from the race or his name is missing from the ballots of certain important states, Truman is not apt to obtain the extra votes needed. As this is written, decision has not been made regarding the inclusion of Wallace in some key states.

If Truman had all the breaks and the Wallace candidacy were withdrawn, the situation in states like Minnesota, California, New York and a few others, would be close. In such case, if nearly all the Wallace voters switched to Truman, the latter's re-election would be within striking distance. A total of 87 electoral votes might be added to the 210 referred to above, making the possible Truman total 297. This, however, seems unlikely.

Dewey's lead in a large bloc of states with many electoral votes is so substantial that if later figures confirm the first results it will be difficult to overcome it in the few remaining weeks. It is now expected that Dewey will win at least 304 electoral votes. Dewey might win 397 if he captures all of the close states. Therefore, at this point in the campaign, the result looks like Dewey by 304-397 electoral votes.

The strength of the Dewey-Warren ticket lies all across the northern tier of states. In the populous eastern and central states, some of which were formerly Roosevelt strongholds, the Republican ratios are significant. However, two states in New England are at present close. The Wallace vote in California makes the Republican lead definite. Washington and Oregon apparently will also be Republican.

It should be emphasized that this analysis is based upon the results of a poll taken before Labor Day. Since then Truman has spoken to huge crowds in Michigan and has begun a very intensive personal campaign which may win him large numbers of votes. Succeeding articles will provide actual popularity percentages and other pertinent data permitting the reader to draw his own conclusions.

If you're the kind of person who likes to look behind the labels when you buy, then you're the very person for whom this brawny ROADMASTER was conceived.

We made it big not just for show, but for the very practical benefits in riding qualities to be obtained from bigness.

We gave it our huskiest power plant not simply to get impressive horsepower ratings, but to provide the brilliant action we think a fine car should have.

We mounted each wheel on its own soft, coil spring not merely out of tradition, but because such springing lays the basis for more uniform comfort for back-seat passenger and driver alike.

We made handling light with a woman's touch in mind, provided deep, soft cushions and smart interior finish in the interests of gracious hospitality.

And finally we reserved for this, the largest and finest of all Buicks, the newest and silkiest form of power transmission.

Only Buick ROADMASTER of all cars on the road has Dynaflo Drive—only this strapping carriage, patterned for the particular in all details, has the drive in which flowing oil replaces both the usual clutch and the familiar low-second-high gear sequence.

From such things has come a swing to ROADMASTER which makes prompt action advisable in placing a firm order. Your Buick dealer will accept yours either with or without a car to trade.

LARD AND PEANUTS

Americans are apt to think once a paper is signed agreeing to some plan that the plan is already an accomplished fact. But it does not work that way. People overseas are getting more and better food now, but it is still dull and unappetizing, says an English visitor to the Homemaker of the Toronto Globe and Mail.

One can get fish, she says, by standing in line. But the only way to cook it is by boiling; there is never any fat for frying. She urges friends on this side to include lard in their packets. It carries fine in the carton, she says. The Homemaker doubts this in hot weather, but thinks it a good idea after first frost. Pancake flour is another thing the English like to get—any of the mixes. Coconut in packages and prepared puddings are wanted, too. Tinned lemon juice they long for and powdered eggs from here taste better.

Friends in Holland write they are not starving any more, and clothing may be procured. But coupons or money or both are likely to be short when something desirable appears on a store shelf, so they still do appreciate everything they get, especially peanut butter and peanut candy. These taste so good and there seems so much nourishment in them! Doubtless people of other countries would like them, too. Shoes are still of top-notch value.

Reconstruction does go on. Conferences proceed and misunderstandings still arise, but day by day things do get better. For some time yet, however, our boxes will delight the faraway friends.

So put the lard carton in a tin and add a tin of coffee. And don't forget the merits of the lemon and the peanut.

From California comes the story of a rattlesnake which startled a deer, with the result that the deer knocked down a man who fell on the snake and killed it. It said so in the paper, really it did.

OF WHAT AVAIL?

"For what avail the plough or sail, or land or life, if freedom fall?"

If Eduard Benes was a reader of Emerson, those lines may well have been in his mind when he died. No man in Europe had given more of his life in working for freedom. Yet it was his heart-breaking lot to stand helplessly by on two occasions, a decade apart, while the freedom of his people was snatched from his hand.

Of what avail? The Czechs under the leadership of Benes have shown to this generation how strong a small people can be, not in physical force but in courage to oppose force. He was far beyond his time in central Europe, but we all hope that some day the nations of the continent will catch up with him.

When that day comes the leadership of Benes, and others like him, will bear a rich harvest.

"Half the people in the world are shy." This remark, taken from a new book on the conquest of shyness, may well be true. Those who are not shy of other people, are too often shy of money.

SAVING TWO CENTS

Would you send a signed check through the open mail? Checks printed on post-cards, available without envelopes and at the post-card rate, are now available.

Letting Tom, Dick and Harry get a good look at a signed check sounds like a good way to promote forgery. Also what is to be done about the bill stub which often accompanies the check? Lastly, bankers speak with feeling of the troubles they will have in reading the signature and the indorsements after the card has been addressed, stamped and canceled by the post office.

Seems like a highly unsatisfactory way to save two cents.

SHILLS

I went to the animal fair,
 The birds and beasts were there.
 The big baboon,
 He sat on the moon,
 And combed his golden hair.
 The monk . . .

Yes, that must have been me, for I went to the country fair and played all the shill games. I moved from one to the other to see how they worked; how they took the money from the yokels, of whom I was one. It was a wonderful experience getting stuck every time I put a dime or a quarter or even half a dollar.

There was the game with the horses climbing uphill. You pushed a handle and a ball bounced in a glass case and every time the ball went into a slot, the horse moved. The first horse to reach the top won the prize. About a dozen could play at once, but only one could win a prize. I played a dozen times. A boy, about 14 years old or thereabouts, won five times out of six. He was playing an hour later. He was playing two hours later. He was still. He worked for the house.

So I moved to a real proposition. This stand exhibited the most expensive prizes. If anyone won, he would walk off with something real, like a costly portable radio or a fishing outfit. So I put up a quarter. A number of India rubber balls were rolling down a chute. Each ball had a number on it in black ink. The number was related to a group of numbers on a chart; these numbers were red, black and green; and one of them was yellow. The numbers were not in consecutive order nor were the colors arranged for easy sight. The chart was a confusing hodge-podge. The odds were high.

Here is the game. Black numbers are a total loss. If you get a green number, something important. If you win a green number, then the ante is raised to 50 cents. The object is to get three greens or two greens and a red and then you can pick anything on the stand. Maybe for $3 or $4 you can take something that costs $100—maybe. The yellow number is only to mix you up; you get an extra play for nothing, but no prize. At first, the fellow sends balls of all colors down the chute. So you get a red or a green or a black. You get two balls for a quarter. You grab them yourself. Nobody interferes. Maybe you win a little prize. But you are tempted to get the three greens. So you go on playing. But now you never get any but black numbers. All of a sudden no balls appear that show red or green numbers on the chart. Maybe you get a yellow which gives you an extra turn, but then again there is an avalanche of India rubber balls with little numbers on them—all showing black on the chart.

So you can go on playing until you are broke because the fellow at the end of the chute controls the balls. He can send them as he likes and he likes not to give expensive prizes, playing these games with a chance of winning. Sure, I'm a sucker.

But it was fun. It must be more fun if you don't figure it out, if you live in a kind of fairland for grownups. Why not? Who doesn't like a hot dog or a hamburger at a stand where nobody is inspected by a Health Commissioner? But what has become of the pink lemonade and the hokey-pokey ice-cream and the snowflakes with three flavors squirted on top? They're lost in the reforms introduced. That's what progress does to us.

So I went to the fair and saw Indian jewelry made in Providence, Rhode Island, and cowboy clothes made in Brooklyn. Who cares? It was a day when I forgot Berlin, Vienna, Moscow. They sell me that Zhdanov died while I was at the fair. (Copyright, 1948, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

MORE ABOUT ELECTRIC SHOCK TREATMENT

Just a few years ago it was estimated that within 50 years, at the present rate of increase in the number of patients in mental institutions, one-half of the population of the world would be looking after the other half. This was before the days of the shock treatment for mental cases. First came the insulin shock for treatment, then metrazol, and finally the electric shock treatment.

Until recently, electric shock treatment was given in mental institutions. Some months ago I mentioned the fact that Dr. E. F. Kerman reported the results obtained by 242 patients treated in his office by electric shock. Of this number, the electric shock treatment was of benefit to 191 and of no benefit to 51. More than 50 per cent of the patients, or 127, recovered.

In "Medical Clinics of North America" Dr. Louis Linn, Mount Sinai Hospital, New York City, gives the history of several cases treated in his office by electric shock in which brilliant results have been obtained. He states that the shock treatment has revolutionized the treatment of mental patients. The "hopeless" feeling of former years has changed to enthusiasm on the part of physicians, nurses, and aides (formerly called guards), as they see so many new and old cases able to return to their homes and occupations.

I have spoken before of how electric treatment removes the stigma so long attached to mental ailments. Dr. Linn states that keeping a patient out of mental institutions accomplishes several things. He is kept at home amid familiar surroundings where he can be nursed by loved ones; he may be able to keep in touch with his school or with his regular work during the weeks necessary for the electric shock treatment. Two treatments a week are given until improvement is noted, and then one treatment a week is all that is needed.

With thousands in hospitals now being cured by this new method, the picture has indeed greatly changed for mental patients.

cine, snuff was considered to have certain specific benefits. It was advocated as both a preventive and a cure for colds, and was supposed to have power to restore failing eyesight as well.

Snuff was introduced in England in the eighteenth century. Dr. Gordon Hake, an eminent nineteenth century medical authority, is quoted as having written in defense of snuff that it "wakes up that torpor so prevalent between the nose and the brain, making the wings of an idea uncurl like those of a new-born butterfly".

Well, 'snough of that.

Japanese scientists say they've found a way to make short people grow taller. That could be hard on the high-heeled shoe business.

It used to be popular to try to break records, but it's different with the cost of living.

Goodness! Aren't Things Complicated Enough?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Galthersburg, Md.—Well, I had a swell vacation—at least until the pigs got loose.

Before the vacation started I had studied road maps and dreamed up all sorts of tours. I figured on going out to see my daughter in California, and my wife's aunt in New Mexico. I bothered Karl Bickel about the best way to reach his hideaway in Ontario, Canada, and corresponded with Sumner Welles about a trip up to Bear Harbor.

But in the end I decided that, with real fireworks likely to break out in Berlin this winter, I ought to take a look at things before-hand, so I got steamship reservations for Europe and went through the red tape of an American Military Government permit to visit Germany.

When the sailing date rolled around, however, I just didn't get on the ship. I didn't on that ship, nor the next ship; in fact, I didn't go at all. I decided that a vacation was for the purpose of doing what one wanted to do most; so I just stayed right at home and enjoyed the Maryland countryside.

That's what I did during all of my vacation—just enjoyed my home and let General Clay worry about the Russians. Only time I left Maryland was to take two trips into the District of Columbia and one trip into the neighboring state of Delaware.

Staying right at home proved to be wonderful—that is, until the pigs got loose. Here are some of the things I did.

Filled the silo—my son-in-law, who used to be a diligent silo-filler when he was courting my daughter, was absent this time; and even my radio agent, Jackson Leichter, never known to do a stroke of work during the rest of the year, carefully sprayed his ankle just before silo-filling time. Despite the drones, however, we had such a big corn crop that we filled not only the main silo, but had to put up two temporary silos of paper and chicken wire.

Read William Vogt's "Road to Survival"—it's a book every good American should read. Makes you realize that we may be skating on thin ice as a nation if we don't stop washing our soil down into the ocean, ruining our forests, and dumping our iron and steel in shot and shell on foreign battlefields.

Went to church—What with getting up at 6 a. m. Sundays to prepare a radio broadcast during most of the year, I don't get to church as often as I should. Especially enjoyed the sermon of Bishop John E. Hines of Austin, Texas, who preached at Bethany Beach, Del. His Delaware neighbors tell about a car getting stuck in the mud outside the church and when several people brought planks to get it out, one man remarked: "If that board doesn't do it, I'll go inside and get the pulpit." "Sphh," cautioned another; "that's preacher over there."

"Yes, yes is the reply," and I'm the bishop.

Decided not to plant any more corn—Having sat on the banks of the Potomac and watched thousands of tons of topsoil wash down from the cornfields of Maryland and Virginia, I finally decided to do my part by planting no more corn. Despite strip-farming and contour-plowing, both of which we practice religiously, any cornfield, unless on level ground, is bound to wash away the most priceless gift nature gave us—our topsoil.

So, from now on, we are filling our silo with alfalfa. The farmers of Iowa, where the ground is flat, can supply the nation with corn.

Met a gradually disappearing species—the country doctor. Young Dr. Garrett Hume got out of the Army and decided he wanted to help his fellow men by practicing where doctors were scarce, hung out his shingle at Georgetown, Del., and has been answering calls on an 18-hour schedule ever since. So, in an age when more doctors gravitate to the city and specialized medicine, here's hats off to the country doctors, like Garrett Hume, who stay out where distances are long, where fees are low and where people need them most.

Pigs Got Loose

Most of the above were enjoyed during the first part of my vacation—before the pigs got loose. I might note in passing something obvious to most lady readers—that this stay-at-home vacation didn't go down to well with Mrs. P. After all, when you've kept house, cooked and planned meals for a year, it's only natural to want to let a hotel manager worry over the food and the servant problem during your husband's vacation.

However, Mrs. P. was a good sport, and, among other things, enjoyed her garden, especially one plot of lawn she had worked hard to keep green and on which we sometimes played deck tennis.

This is the point where the pigs came in. It was, of course, my fault. I had seen them roaming around loose, and I had been warned by the lady who is much richer than I am that they might descend on the lawn. However, they were such nice little pigs, and they so obviously enjoyed their freedom, that I put off catching them for a day.

Envis General Clay

That day turned the tide of my vacation. That evening the pigs decided to play deck tennis. I don't know which of them won, but I know I lost. In thirty minutes that lawn-pride of Mrs. P's heart—looked like a plowed field. I took one look at it and decided General Clay in Berlin was to be envied. Why, oh why, had I not followed my earlier plans and gone to Germany!

Did you ever put together a picture puzzle the size of a quarter acre? Well, I did, beginning at five the next morning—a picture puzzle consisting of little pieces of turf—octagon-shaped, triangular-shaped or no-shaped. In fact, I spent the rest of my vacation patching that lawn, watering it, tamping it, praying over it.

However, there's a compensation in everything.

Some men spend several hundred dollars to have a gymnasium instructor put them through knee-bending exercises. I got the knee-bending exercise and it didn't cost me a cent. And in the end Mrs. P. said she was almost glad we had pigs. They had proved her husband's 5 a. m. devotion.

Public Opinion Polls Have Many Influences on Electorate, Since Many Like to Choose Winners

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 10 — When Elmo Roper, the distinguished analyst of public opinion, announced this week that he isn't going to take any more polls because Governor Dewey "is almost as good as elected," he pointed out also that "liberals" may believe that by so stating he is contributing his mite to President Truman's defeat and he doesn't intend anything of the sort.

But, it will also be argued by Republicans, such a statement by Mr. Roper may cause a large number of Republicans to stay away from the polls on the ground that it isn't necessary to vote.

The truth is that public-opinion polls have a variety of influences on the electorate. Lots of people like to vote for a winner. But there are signs that many a public-opinion poll in a given state has led to redoubled effort and sometimes to closer contests than otherwise might have been the case.

Mr. Roper qualifies his prediction somewhat by saying that he is assuming that "no serious change in the international situation—such as war, perhaps—may develop between now and the election or that Governor Dewey will not make any serious mistakes."

Public-opinion polls are for the most part still a puzzle to many people. There are many who say they never heard of any of their friends or neighbors who had been interviewed. They misunderstand the nature of modern polling or sampling methods. The present-day poll doesn't go in for quantity or for a canvass of the masses, but applies to different groups. By knowing the percentage of people in income groups—the government publishes this—and by knowing the population data and eligible voters and other factors, a small sample is taken that has again and again proved correct.

The same technique has been used successfully in market analyses to determine the acceptability of products or resistances to price or other characteristics before nationwide selling campaigns are undertaken. The small sample invariably tells what the larger sample would tell, if carried on to higher and higher numbers.

So when Mr. Roper says that conditions being the same two months hence, the electorate will not change its mind, he really means that the margin or lead of Governor Dewey is so substantial already that nothing short of an international crisis or gross error on the Republican side would change the outcome. This is in line with previous experience. In fact, many public-opinion tests have indicated that the voters make up their minds long before election and that campaigns on the whole change relatively few votes.

But, with the Roper announcement, what will the campaign managers do? Certainly there are no signs that the President or his associates are going to relax their efforts. The Republican management has announced that the party workers must guard against over-confidence.

Basically the reason why the public-opinion polls at the moment indicate an easy Dewey victory is that Henry Wallace is subtracting in pivotal states enough votes to make it easy for the Republicans to win. It is somewhat analogous to 1912 when a third party under Theodore Roosevelt split the Republican vote, and the Democratic candidate, Woodrow Wilson, had large vote because he got a plurality in nearly every important state.

The effect of the polls and the Roper announcement may be to bring about a last-minute effort to draw the followers of Henry Wallace back into the party. It is apparent that Wallace himself is not yet willing to talk about withdrawal, though the "left wing" and liberal elements in the Democratic party are working day and night to persuade the Wallace followers, especially in labor unions, not to throw away their votes and help the Republicans by supporting Wallace. They are saying, effect, that a vote for Wallace is a vote for Dewey.

It is difficult to see what the Wallace followers can gain. If Dewey is elected and becomes a one-term president due to economic conditions, would any political leader inside the Democratic party, smarting under "debt" taxes, starting in 1948 by Wallace, be likely to aid Wallace in getting the Democratic nomination in 1952? To ask the question is to answer it. Hence pressure to bring the Wallace followers in line may be one of the unintended but realistic sequels to Mr. Roper's announcement. BABSON on BUSINESS

POLITICS

Babson Park, Mass., Sept. 10.—I am a statistician and not a politician. Moreover, I always vote the party line. Ticker rather than that of either of the two big parties. Hence, perhaps I am not worthy to discuss politics. But—as my mother used to say—"I like to see even the devil get his due." Therefore, as the presidential campaign is now opening, the members of both parties stand and ponder over the following figures.

What the Record Shows

With all the fussing we give President Truman, statistics show that since his administration this country has had the highest national income in its history. At the risk of repeating some facts which I have already stated, let me emphasize that the volume of U. S. business has been above normal for the last 10 years (including 1947). The volume of business in the national income for 1948 will be about $215,000,000,000 compared with $40,000,000,000 when Roosevelt became president. This fourfold increase consists of a doubling of goods and services produced and a doubling of prices.

This record really outdistances the boom era of 1922-1929. The volume almost fell to the normal line in 1940 as in 1924; it came within four points of the normal line in 1945. From this point, however, it recovered to a new all-time high within a period of one year. During 1947 and so far in 1948 the volume has run at record highs. The volume of business today stands at 28 per cent above normal. This is close to the April 1947 all-time high and 24 points above the low point of 1945.

Comparing the '40's With the '20's

There is considerable difference between the boom period of the past ten years and the so-called Coolidge boom of the twenties. The prosperity period of the twenties was a post-war boom culminating in a period of drastic uncontrolled stock market inflation and frenzied speculation. The boom of the last ten years, on the other hand, was a post-war boom culminating in a period of uncontrolled wage inflation which may result in a similar collapse. During both the early '20's and '40's peacetime goods were reduced to minimum creating a pent-up demand for consumer goods which to this day is not completely satisfied. This is further being aggravated somewhat now by stockpiling of war material again and the shipping of billions of supplies to Europe.

So far there is as yet no over-production of consumers' goods; but in some few instances the supply is beginning to catch up with the demand. There are still shortages in automobiles, steel, non-ferrous metals, electrical equipment, new homes and several other capital goods. The inflation at the present time is not in the stock market but in wages and the concomitant high prices.

If this country is headed for a lower national income and the natural decline in business going therewith, I cannot imagine why either Mr. Truman or Mr. Dewey should be President. If I were Mr. Truman I would want to retire in my glory; while if I were Mr. Dewey, I had rather wait four years and see what happens to the country in the meantime. Based upon Newton's Law of Action and Reaction, whichever is elected is sure to face hard times and—unless "saved" by World War III—will probably be defeated in 1952.

What John Q. Public Should Do

Yet if we all—employers and wage-workers—would be willing to work harder and give the consumer more for his dollar, the United States could continue to enjoy present good business for some time to come. If we consumers would be willing to change our buying habits in accordance with demand and supply, this would prevent prices from going any higher.

If we would encourage the government to cut its pay and relief rolls in halves and put millions of people back into industry, it would reduce taxes and the labor shortage. There is much that each reader of this column could do to prolong prosperity; but are we willing to do so? Remember that politics are only an echo of what we ourselves are willing to do. A river does not run higher than its source.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 9.—In this campaign, President Truman and the Messrs. Green, Murray and Tobin and all the predatory band of union racketeers are appealing to the stupidity and greed of the American worker. These are highly developed faculties of the faceless fellow who, as we are told by the biographer of Harry Hopkins, was deliberately turned aside from the political issues in 1944, and made to think of the fight as a mere bout of repartee between Governor Dewey and Roosevelt's dog.

The biographer, Mr. Sherwood, makes no apology to that extent for the late Roosevelt's contempt, often took onto his lap to say, "You know and I know—" "Your government has decided—" Roosevelt did play him for a fool and with enormous success. And all the old professionals who have lived like kings on the pence wrung from his pay confidently understood that the way to win his vote is to flatter his greed and his pride with absurd compliments and yowl over his woes as though they were always the inflictions of a hateful personality called "Wall Street."

Mr. Taft, as a man of honor and self-respect, simply could not force himself to gaze upon the faces of the American people and tell them that they were fine and blameless, or even handsome. He made some attempts but they hesitated him. He never could master the melodious knack that made Roosevelt king. Professional politicians, a salty, sordid cult like the old school of fight managers, said Mr. Taft had political

Brown's Claims Are Checked to See If Law Violated

Boston, Sept. 10 (AP)—The New England division of the Pure Food and Drug Administration studied evidence today to determine whether farmer John Brown violated any law in distributing his so-called "master cells."

The Middleboro farmer has claimed that the "cells" are a coloidal solution encased in porous cement matrices—will make crops grow faster and combat usually fatal diseases in poultry and animals.

Cyril C. Sullivan, area director, said he will refer the matter to the office of the U. S. Attorney if there have been any violations.

Brown, a retired pharmacist, declined comment on a report made yesterday by the Food and Drug Administration in Washington that preliminary tests indicated the "cells" had no healing value.

George P. Larrick, assistant commissioner, said the agency cannot take official action only if there have been interstate shipments of the matrices.

Thus far, he added, there have been no indications of any shipments to "amount to anything."

"Preliminary tests," he said, "do not demonstrate that the cells have any therapeutic value."

When the government began its investigation last July, the 61-year-old farmer said "we're 10,000 years ahead of the world and can prove it."

Brown claimed by placing the matrices in wells or soil the healing qualities of the cell passed into the metabolism of poultry, animals or plant life.

Stewart to Hold Open House on Air Force Day

Stewart Field, Sept. 10—The United States Air Force, in marking its first year of autonomy on Saturday, Sept. 18, is urging the American public—as stockholders in this organization—to visit air bases and get to know their air force better.

Stewart Field, the Hudson valley's air force base, will again play host to hundreds of visitors on Air Force Day, at which time various aerial demonstrations, static ground displays, and other demonstrations will be presented.

Overtime Pay Ordered

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 10 (AP)—Overtime pay has been ordered for prisoners at Pennsylvania's Rockview prison as an incentive to get the prison's tomato crop harvested and canned in time. F. Herbert Cooper, state superintendent of prison industries, said yesterday that normally the prison has a population of 1,000 inmates, but that now there are only about 800 prisoners there. "Prisoners receive about 40 cents for an eight-hour day," Cooper said. "But to get the tomato crop harvested and canned in time, we've been paying them an additional 20 cents for four hours overtime."

b.o. and they were right. It was apparent from his demeanor that he regarded himself as a person very superior to the common run of Americans. But where as Roosevelt pretended to be a man of the people, a grotesque pose by a snob as full of affectations as an actor, Mr. Taft never has pretended. He is distinctly finer in all the admirable ways than the people in the subway or waiting the ball-game more intelligent, diligent and conscientious and with less of their greed for the property and rights of others, and he would not insult the voters' intelligence by pretending to be no better than they.

At campaign time, if ever, the Americans should be told the truth about themselves, for most of the evils done by the Government are committed in response to popular demand. Instead, however, the rivals for office lather the citizen with imaginary virtues and arouse his primitive superstitions with ghost stories which would offend the independent intelligence of a laggard child. The proposition that "Wall Street" caused the "rumor" in the inflation while it opposed with ruthless greed the inflationary Roosevelt-Truman scale of union wages is typical of these. The proposition that the Taft-Hartley law has injured the worker by imposing restraints on the union goons who kick the faceless man around is another. If the bull were restricted to persons of a reasonably low minimum of intelligence such nonsense would be self-defeating.

There is no mechanical method of learning at the moment just how well these appeals are going over. But if they do fail, their defeat need not be a sign of an awakening of intelligence. Many of the voters are just bored and want a new set of sycophants to flatter and fool them. Moreover, the Republicans are offering equally toothsome stuff of the same kind. We may trust them absolutely to say nothing about the inflationary power of a basic wage of $27 a day for bricklayers who are forbidden by their union's contract with the builders to exceed one-third of a reasonable normal rate of production. This is twice the normal pay for one-third the production. Actually, bricklayers are producing at less than one-sixth of their capacity per dollar of pay when portal-to-portal and wash-up time are counted and compulsory overtime and arbitrary bonuses are added. But where is the candidate who would appear before a congress of bricklayers and say, "By your greed and laziness you bums have made it necessary for the displaced people of America to pay $6 for a dollar's worth of home construction and see you have the gall to squawk about the cost of beef and butter. I am against all racketeers, and if I am elected, I will do my best to make it impossible for you greedy parasites to prey on the necessity and anguish of the community. If you strike, I will smash your picket-lines so decent men can do honest work."

Robert Moses, of New York, the most competent public servant in the United States and the most straightforward, is the only one who is capable of uttering such honest criticism. But perish the thought that Mr. Moses hates the people. He is onto them, that is all, and unlike others who are onto them, he will lie to them about non-existent virtues for the privilege of working himself to death for them. He has a decent contempt for the honor, self-respect and self-restraint of the people.

The appetite for sympathy and flattery is a dangerous weakness of popular government. Roosevelt and Huey Long fattened the people on such hot-food until they had scarcely more manhood than swine. The Germans, under the spell of Hitler, fell to brooding, then moaning over the terrible persecutions put upon them, completely forgetting their own iniquities.

A campaign waged on distortions and evasions must come to a miserable conclusion. Dewey will be elected, Russia will win, and will come under heavy punishment right away for failing to tackle evils which are due only to the selfishness and stupidity of the people themselves. Naturally, he will try to cure these troubles by scolding the Democratic Party. He will be thinking of 1932 when he will have to go back to the people like some bum mooching five dollars for a cup of Java, asking for re-election.

Consulate Aides Sail For Homes in Russia

Jersey City, Sept. 10 (AP)—The bizarre diplomatic "affaire Lomakin" was concluded today, with 25 employees of the closed Russian Consulates in New York and San Francisco on their way home.

They sailed yesterday on the Russian ship Nikolayev, which stops at Mexico before sailing on to Odessa or Leningrad.

The two consulates, the only ones the Soviet Union maintained in this country, were closed after the U. S. asked Russia to bring home the New York consul, Jacob Lomakin. His activities in the Kasenkina case aroused U. S. displeasure.

Only one of the 25, Lomakin's chauffeur, had any comment. Michael Semushkin said he was "glad to be going home." He said he didn't know whether he would resume duties as chauffeur for Lomakin, who already has left this country.

The other 24 said tersely, "no comment." But they took home with them two phonographs and quantities of American cigarettes, together with furniture and personal belongings. They carried their own luggage to the ship.

As the vessel pulled out, they shouted "adios" to a scant dozen persons down to see them off, apparently in view of their stop at Mexico.

Former Model Sues Food Company Heir

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—A former model and entertainer, Phyllis Lane, wants $100,000 from a man she claims dropped her from a window of the Park Central Hotel, after first letting her dangle by her ankles.

In a State Supreme Court action which became known yesterday, Miss Lane named John La Porte Given, food company heir, as defendant.

Her complaint charged that Given "wilfully, wantonly, maliciously and recklessly threw and pushed" her from a 22nd-floor window of the hotel to a terrace one story below. She claimed she suffered bodily injuries and pain to the extent of $100,000.

Given has entered a general denial. Miss Lane said that on Dec. 17, 1947, Given expressed the opinion he was a "pretty strong man," then grabbed her by the ankles, held her out the window, "swung me like a pendulum" and dropped her.

The action became known when Miss Lane moved to examine Given before trial of the suit. The court reserved decision on her request.

Communists Can Travel Over U. S. To Prepare Cases

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—Ten indicted Communist leaders are free to travel anywhere in the United States to prepare for their defense and raise funds for their trial in mid-October.

Permission was granted yesterday by Federal Judge Simon H. Rifkind.

The 10, including William Z. Foster, national chairman of the Communist party, have been free on $5,000 bail each since they were indicted by a federal grand jury, but they were confined to the New York city area.

They are charged with conspiring to organize a party which advocates the forcible overthrow of the U. S. Government.

Judge Rifkind held that "generally speaking, it is not the purpose of the criminal law to confine a person accused of crime before his conviction."

U. S. Attorney John F. X. McGohy opposed the application. He charged the defendants' claim that they need to travel to raise defense funds was made in bad faith. Previously, McGohy said, they asked for travel permission to carry on Communist party activities.

Besides Foster, the defendants included Eugene Dennis, party general secretary, and Henry Winston, John Gates, Irving Potash, Benjamin J. Davis, Jr., and John B. Williamson, Jacob Stachel, Robert G. Thompson and Gus Hall, all members of the party's national board.

Two other members of the board were among the 12 indicted July 20 and they previously obtained permission to travel.

Buying Car Abroad Is Not All That's Rosy

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—If you think you can get a new car cheaper in London or Buenos Aires than in your home town, forget it.

This idea got around recently when a story about an airline pilot and his new car came to light. But the story had some missing elements—and they make the whole thing considerably less rosy for frustrated would-be new car buyers.

This was the first story: The pilot, Dick Wells of Lake Orion, Mich., was reported to have ordered a Studebaker in this country more than a year ago.

Then, during a stopover in London, he talked to a Studebaker dealer there and was able to make arrangements to get a car with delivery to be made in South Bend, Ind.

The price, so the story went, was to be $1,820 as compared with the $2,387 tag on the car he had ordered in this country. He picked up a car after he returned to the United States.

The car ordered by Wells in London was a sedan in the company's least expensive line. It sells at $1,803.70 in South Bend with certain specified equipment and accessories. Wells actually paid $1,817.70; the extra $14 covered charges in export sales transactions.

The $2,387 was the price for a convertible in a more expensive line with stipulated equipment and accessories. The pilot gave a London hotel as his address in placing the order there and the English dealer accepted it with the provision that the car would be brought to England. Shipping agents estimate that would involve a little item of about $600 including ocean shipping charges, boxing and marine insurance.

J. Wells Weaver Dies in Clintondale

J. Wells Weaver, who until recently was superintendent of the farm at the Ulster County Home, New Paltz, died Thursday in Clintondale. He had been in ill health for some time and about three months ago resigned his position after 15 years.

Mr. Weaver was born in Millville, Otsego county, in 1878. He had been a resident of Clintondale for 50 years. He was formerly operator of the J. W. Weaver fruit farm. He was a well-known exhibitor at state and county fairs and served as fruit judge for the Dutchess County Fair at Rhinebeck for 20 years.

Mr. Weaver was a prominent member of Clintondale Chapter of the New York State Grange and served as deputy to the State Grange. At one time he was president of the New York State Grange Deputies Association.

For many years he served as Republican committeeman for Town of Lloyd and took an active interest in politics. He was a former member of the board of directors of the Ulster County Hospital and the Ulster School, Poughkeepsie. Mr. Weaver was an active member of the Society of Friends Church, Clintondale.

He was the son of the late John W. and Mary McNab Weaver and husband of the late Nina Hurd Weaver. Weaver, Clintondale; John Weaver, 4th, New Paltz and W. Bruce Weaver, Washington, D. C., also three grandchildren.

page. Some newspapers have reported they soon will be out of newsprint unless they get new deliveries. Meanwhile, the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce reported a survey of part of its members showed that 2,391 workers have been laid off as a result of the strike.

Chain Stores Suffer

Independent food stores still were operating normally, but most chain stores had only canned goods and other dry groceries to sell. Their supplies of meats, fresh fruit, vegetables, and other perishables were virtually exhausted. Appealing for a resumption of newspaper deliveries, O'Dwyer said: "The minute there are no newspapers, there is darkness in the city, even in the broadest daylight. Rumors spread. Evil forces take advantage of the situation and there may even be violence. Without newspapers there would be dangers for which I don't have enough policemen to protect the city. I am frankly worried."

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—An irregularly lower price movement on the stock market today accompanied a small volume of trading.

After a mixed start, the market edged upward in a hesitant manner and appeared for a while to be breaking away from the two-day downward movement.

That was short lived, however, and fractional changes flipped prices from one side of the column to the other. Some of the recent market leaders held their small gains doggedly.

Trading was equal to the slowest rate of the week with no enthusiasm being worked up in any major category of the list.

Both rails and steels were easy while motors were irregular. Utilities weren't especially active and presented a mixed pattern.

Dropping fractions to around a point were Santa Fe, Southern Railway, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Caterpillar Tractor Co., American Can Co., U. S. Gypsum, Paramount One, block of 5,100 shares of Paramount sold early at 1/4 off.

Tipping upward were Firestone, National Distillers, Southern California Edison, Air Reduction, Eastman Kodak, and Great Northern Preferred.

In the curb market, stocks were quiet and price changes for the most part were narrow. Going up a little were Babcock & Wilcox, and Reed Roller Bit, while on the downside were Detroit Steel Products and Cities Service.

Firemen Request Po'keepsie Raise

The Poughkeepsie Uniformed Firemen's Association on Wednesday night submitted to the Common Council a request for a 30 per cent pay increase for paid firemen. The Poughkeepsie News-Yorker reported.

A communication from John S. Mullaly and Joseph J. Farrell, co-chairmen of the firemen's pay raise committee, stated that the cost of living has raised approximately 55 per cent during the past two years, while the firemen's salaries have raised only 15 per cent in the same period.

Poughkeepsie firemen now receive $2,975 per year, and a 30 per cent increase would make the annual salaries $3,867.50.

The request was referred to the finance committee of the Common Council.

At the same meeting, Fire Chief Markwick recommended a three group plan be adopted for assignment of paid firemen and requested the appointment of three additional firemen and an additional department captain, stating that the present plan of assignments has proved "unsatisfactory."

Rodeo Queen Is To Ride Sunday in Fall Horse Show

Woodstock, Sept. 10—Joel Vinson of St. Louis, Mo., Calico Ranch 1948 rodeo queen, is among the latest entries received for the Woodstock Riding Club's Second Annual Fall Horse Show on Sunday, Sept. 12, in the club's Chestnut Hill ring, beginning at 9:30 a. m. The queen, a Conover model, will ride Jimmy McCabe's Palomino, El Chorro, in the Ladies' Stock Class and Virgil VanWagonen's "Arab" in the parade class.

Richard Shultis, who after getting off to a good start in the jumping contests at the recent Dutchess county horse show was thrown from his mount, Texas Prince, and was hospitalized for several days, will compete for a blue ribbon in the jumping class. Although bruised and cut, Shultis suffered no serious injury in his fall, it is reported.

Many fine horses have been entered by Deborah Dow of Southlands Farms, Rhinebeck, who will bring excellent riders to compete in the horsemanship and jumping classes. Smith Brothers Riding School of Saugerties will also be well represented as will the College Riding Stables of New Paltz.

Entries for the team pulling contest have so far been received from Fred Reynolds, Shady; Ervin LaBarr, Woodstock; and Harry Catron, Willow. Several other team owners have signified their intention to post enter in this feature.

Some concern has been felt by those in charge of the show because of the lack of rain. However, President VanWagonen announced today that the Woodstock Fire Department had volunteered to soak the ring.

Included in the 15 classes Sunday, there will be six stake classes with prizes totaling $50 for each class.

In each of the non-stake classes, beautiful trophies and four ribbons will be given. Besides the ribbon and trophy for the grand champion, there will also be trophy and reserve ribbon to second choice for the champion, trophy and reserve ribbon to third choice, and trophy and reserve ribbon to fourth choice.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius

Albert Harris was a worthless sort of a chap—so much so that his wife Harriet was compelled to do many menial chores to provide for both of them.

But one day Albert conveniently died. A few days after the funeral Harriet was walking down the street carrying a package under her arm. An old acquaintance, leaning lazily against a telephone pole, greeted her with:

Friend: "Hello, Harriet. Not you got under your arm, liver?"

Harriet: "No, I've just been after 'avin Albert's remains cremated and I've his dust in this package; and I'm takin' 'im 'ome and puttin' 'im in an 'urn glass. From now on 'e's workin' for me, the blither."

After the visitor had talked all evening about the size and fierceness of the mosquitoes, the old Southerner was becoming much annoyed.

Guest: "Just look at them swarn, why don't you screen the porch?"

Host: "That, sir, would be un-sportsmanlike. We use mouse-traps."

Pitching Horseshoes By Billy Rose

New York, as anyone who lives west of the Kill van Kull will tell you, is a cold and unfriendly town. Its inhabitants don't know a starting from a start and, what's even worse, never borrow cups of sugar from each other.

Well, the only sugar I've ever borrowed had pictures of Presidents on it, but I do know a man-sized myth when I see one. And, in my book, the chestnut about New York being heartless is a myth that's as good as a mile, if not better.

That's I give you the exact history of Mrs. Fishman and her no-good son, Joey, head-tug by heart-tug.

When I was knee-high to the Allen Street gutter, I used to buy my license whips and jawbreakers in a tiny candy store run by a Mrs. Fishman who was only a few years removed from a village in the Ukraine. There was also a Mr. Fishman, but I only remember him as a sad-faced little gent who stayed home and coughed a lot.

Somewhere around the time that Catfish Cal became our Chief Executive, life started looking the candy-store lady around. One December day she gave birth to a son named Joey, and the following April, rode out to Brooklyn in a black carriage and watched them bury Mr. Fishman. And for the next 20 years, life never let up on her.

Joey, raised in the kill-or-cure incubator that is the East Side, grew up to be a no-good, and the residents of Allen Street seldom mentioned his name without adding, "Poor Mrs. Fishman." For years he divided his time regularly between the pool room and the police line-up, but I never once heard Mrs. Fishman run her son down. According to her, it was only a matter of time before he settled down and made something of himself.

One day a couple of years ago, I went back to the old neighborhood for a look-see and a listen-hear, and Sam Carmel, who has been carrying the Allen Street mail for 35 years, brought me up to date on Joey and his activities.

Sam is the kind of mailman you're supposed to find only in small towns. In addition to getting the mail through, he acts as family counselor, information dispenser and all-around letter-writer. He speaks both Yiddish and Italian fluently, and many of the times I've seen him squint at a stamp and write a letter in one language while it was being dictated in another.

I met Sam as he was going into the walk-up tenement where Mrs. Fishman still lives. He had a long, brown envelope in his hand. "For your old friend," he explained.

"Is Joey writing her from Sing Sing?" I asked.

"Joey isn't writing from any place," said Sam. "He was killed in the war, and this is the check his mother gets every month from the Government."

I was surprised to hear Joey's dead. "But I always thought the blessed event would take place in a back alley,"

"That's what we all thought," said Sam, "and it probably would have if it hadn't been for Mitchell Riley."

It didn't take much coaxing to get the rest of the story from Sam. A couple of years before the war, Joey started seeing a lot of a nice kid named Mitchell Riley. No one could understand what this Cohen & Kelly combine had in common, but the fact is that the pair became inseparable and it wasn't long before Mitchell was having most of his needs in Mrs. Fishman's kitchen.

Mitch was an orphan, and in return for this bit of home life, he took it on himself to keep Joey out of trouble, and out of the $30 a week he made as a trucker's helper, he would usually make good whenever Joey heaved a brick through somebody's plate glass window or found something that hadn't been lost. Although she never said anything about it, it's my guess that Mrs. Fishman had an idea of what was going on, for she treated Mitchell like another son, and space and finances permitting, would have adopted him.

When the war began, Mitchell enlisted, and everything he could to beat the draft, but a buddy caught up with him, and the two buddies wound up in the same infantry outfit. When they went overseas, Mrs. Fishman got regular letters signed "Joe and Mitch," but according to Sam Carmel who translated the letters for the old lady, they were always in Mitchell's handwriting.

Then one day Mrs. Fishman got an official letter from the Government, and with it, a long letter from Mitchell telling how Joey had died a hero's death for a cause he believed in. Mitchell said his pal had proved himself to be a son any mother would be proud to call her own, and according to Sam, it was the most touching letter he had ever translated.

When Mitchell was discharged, he came to see Mrs. Fishman, bringing a pile of Joey's personal effects, a couple of medals, and a Congressional citation for valor and heroism over and beyond the call of duty. Mrs. Fishman dried her eyes, and the document framed, and hung it over the parlor mantle. Then, when she found out that Mitchell didn't have a place to live, she insisted that he move in with her. Joey's bed was empty, and she had room for him at last.

When Sam told me the story, I said, "That's a nice finish and Joey's mom must feel pretty good about her kid turning out so well after all."

"There's a little more to the story," said Sam. "The day after Mitchell came back, Mrs. Fishman showed me the citation, and since then almost everybody on Allen Street has been up to see it. Most of the folks now can read and write English—it's not like old days—but not a single person has ever thought it necessary to tell the old lady that the name on the scroll isn't Joseph Fishman but Mitchell Riley."

Lemay Awaits Police; Charged With Forgery

Newark, N. J., Sept. 10 (AP)—Edmond H. Lemay, 52-year-old felt company manager, awaited the arrival of Milwaukee police today with a warrant charging forgery.
He was picked up by Newark authorities last night at the request of Milwaukee detectives who earlier had "invited" Lemay to return to Milwaukee.

Lemay's wife, Cecilia, 54, disappeared June 15.
Sheriff George Hanley said in Milwaukee the forgery warrant was issued in connection with the endorsement on a check issued to Lemay's wife.

Lemay moved to Newark June 23, to become manager of the American Hair and Felt Company plant here.

Haley said that in long "formal" telegrams, he also had invited Mrs. Eva Clark, 51, to return to Milwaukee for questioning about the disappearance of Mrs.
Lemay. He said Mrs. Clark moved to Newark about the same time as Lemay.

Chiefs Take Second Straight Over Colonials in Playoffs, 8-4

Ed Kobesky's Homer Wasted; Teams to Play Here Tonight

Action in the semi-final round of the post-season Shaughnessy playoffs of the Class B Colonial League returns to municipal stadium tonight and without a single doubt the shift won't make Manager Ed "Shovels" Kobesky of the local Colonials an unhappy man.

The local pilot did just about everything humanly possible Thursday night to get on even terms with the Poughkeepsie Chiefs but despite his homer, a single, four runs batted in and a stint on the mound thrown in for good measure, the Colonials dropped an 8 to 4 verdict to the Bridge City nine.

So, it's back to the uptown ball park and possibly a change of scenery will do the trick.

In hopes of stopping the Chiefs, Manager Kobesky is expected to nominate Harry Petty as the pitcher for tonight's vital contest. Joe Bellucci will probably start for Poughkeepsie.

While the Colonials were dropping their second straight in the best of seven series last night, rain stopped the second ball game between the Waterbury Timers and the Port Chester Clippers. The Timers won the opening game Wednesday night.

Five In Seventh

The Colonials held a slim 4 to 3 edge going into the seventh inning last night at Poughkeepsie. The Chief, suddenly came to life and batted across five big runs and the ball game.

Emil Sostre started for Kingston but gave way to High Harry Bedell. "Shovels" Kobesky came in in the big seventh inning, batted and finished the game without allowing a run.

Marty Garlock went all the way for Poughkeepsie and with the exception of Eddie McNamara, John Elenchin and Kobesky, he might have had an easy night. The three local swingers collected all of the eight blows garnered by Kingston.

After pushing across a single tally in the first the Colonials took a 4-0 edge in the third on the strength of Kobesky's long drive over the left field fence, a drive of about 375 feet.

Sostre, meanwhile, was having his troubles although managing to get out of continued jams. A quick double play from Ralph Matzer to McNamara got him out of a mess in the second when he loaded the bases with none out.

Sostre left in the fifth and was replaced by Bedell who pitched to one batter who singled and "Red" Turner was summoned from the bullpen. He put out the fire after two runs were scored.

Singles by DeToia, Irons and Garlock sandwiched in with a couple of walks, an error by Al Ferony at third on a squeeze play and Turner's wild pitch gave the Chiefs their cluster of five runs.

COLONIAL CAPEERS—Eddie McNamara, the Colonial keystone operator, will miss tonight's game and Saturday's due to the sudden death of his grandfather, Business Manager Ted Lavino has requested the permission of the Poughkeepsie club to use Dan Palmer in McNamara's place.

Paul Dunlop and Dan Kegan had been previously ruled ineligible to compete in the series. Only about 600 fans watched the game last night. About 700 saw the series opener.

With Hartwick Eleven

Ed Huettinger of Kingston, a 185-pound end, has reported for football practice with the Hartwick College team. Hartwick opened training September 6.

Williamson's Grid Ratings To Start in Freeman Today

Beginning today The Kingston Daily Freeman publishes Paul B. Williamson's weekly ratings of local and national football teams and his predictions of their forthcoming games. Rated as football's greatest seer, Williamson has scientifically calculated the related standings of teams and forecast their games for more than 30 years.

He has consistently proved his ability with an outstanding average of 85 per cent right on over 40,000 games.

In making selections, Williamson mathematically considers such factors as scoring records, manpower, coaching, team condition, morale, style, and travel schedule.

A statistical summary of college and service football, the Williamson system starts with September games and continues through the Rose Bowl and other New Year's Day games. He has spent more than 10 months plotting the collective values of over 900 teams for the 1948 season.

Through cold, impartial, scientific cross-filing and correlating, Williamson presents the following as his "First Ten" for 1948:

1. Georgia Tech
2. Texas U.
3. Northwestern U.
4. Army
5. Columbia U.
6. California U.
7. Minnesota U.
8. Vanderbilt U.
9. Notre Dame U.

Morgan's-Boulevards Meet Tonight; Rhubarb Ends Thursday's Playoff

The season of rhubarbs continued to plague the City Baseball League Thursday night at the Athletic Field when Umpire-in-Chief Johnny Prucnal halted activities in the top half of the fifth inning with Boulevard Gulf holding a slim 7 to 6 lead over Morgan's Restaurant in the third and deciding game of the semi-final series.

As a result of the arbiter's decision, the completed four innings will be thrown into the waste basket and the two clubs will start from scratch tonight in hopes of settling the winner to meet Chez Emile for the post-season championship.

Although no protests were lodged, Manager Bob Gulnick this morning criticized the actions of Umpire Prucnal in allowing the game to continue after the completion of the fourth inning.

Gulnick, speaking to a Freeman reporter today, declared that everything would have been peaceful if Prucnal had stopped the ball game after the fourth inning. "That would have been all right by us," the Boulevard Gulf pilot stated. "However," he added, "when Prucnal allowed Morgan's to bat in the fifth our entire ball club felt cheated."

Gulnick went on to describe the start of the game. After one man was retired, according to Gulnick, Barnes stepped to the plate, and deliberately stalled for time. Finally, after a few minutes, Prucnal suddenly called the game.

Morgan's took a 4-1 lead last night with a pair of runs in the first and second. They added two more in the third to make it 6-1 before the Boulevards came back with two in the last half of the third. The Boulevards went ahead with a bulge of four in the bottom half of the fourth.

Grid Cards Battle Eagles Tonight in Benefit Game

Philadelphia, Sept. 10 (AP)—It's in the Cards that the Philadelphia Eagles have a football game on their hands tonight.

For the champion Chicago Cards of the National Football League will be here to try to pull the tail feathers out of the Eagles in the 11th annual Philadelphia Inquirer Charity game, football game at Municipal stadium.

More than 60,000 fans are expected in the huge stadium when the two rivals resume passing and smashing at each other. The Eagles are out to avenge the setback suffered at the hands of the Chicagoans in last December's N.F.L. championship game at Chicago. And the Cards are just as determined to repeat their 28-21 win.

Harry Smith, Dudley Smith; Bill and Eddie Zwick; Phil and Frank Stone; Ken and Billy Davenport; P. L. Russell and Bob Russell;

Grid Giants Open Final Rehearsals For Chicago Bears

With more than a month of pre-season practice in Wisconsin and with two warm-up games behind it, the New York Giants football squad returned to its home base at Bear Mountain Thursday to begin final preparations for the 10th annual Fresh Air Fund game against the Chicago Bears at the Polo Grounds next Tuesday night.

The squad of 41 will work out daily until game time on the field adjacent to the Inn in the Bear Mountain State Park.

The Giants come back East with a squad that is admirably balanced in veterans and newcomers. To the tested group that includes Paul Gervasio, who will handle the ball in Steve Owen's new Winged T formation; Ray Poole, end; Tex Coulter and Jim White, tackles; Len Younce and Bob Doherty, guards; John Cannady, center, and Frank Reagan and Gene Roberts, backs, the Polo Grounds entry in the National Football League race has added such outstanding rookies as Mississippi's Chuck Conery, Penn's Skippy Minisi and San Francisco's Joe Scott, backs; Yale's Paul Walker and Bill Swiacki and Bruce Gehlke, the 1947 Columbia ends; John Wolosky, the great Penn State center and Carl Fennema, University of Washington pivot, among many others.

In his first warm-up game, against the Green Bay Packers, Coach Steve Owen used nine veterans and two new men in his starting line-up, but that was mainly because several of the newcomers had just returned from the Chicago All-Star game and were not yet fully versed in the new Giant attack.

The Bloomington Troopers pulled up even with the pennant-winning Peekskill Highlanders with a 9-2 decision. Peekskill had won the first game of the best-of-seven series.

Cardinals also squared away its series at one game each with Mahanoy City by defeating the Brewers 12-11.

Cardinals, while blasting out 20 hits, had to come from behind to win over Mahanoy City. Cardinals put across the tying and winning runs with two out in the ninth inning.

Norman Camp, Bloomington right-hander, set the Highlanders down with four scattered hits. Peekskill moves to Bloomington tonight for the third series contest, while Mahanoy City remains at Cardinals.

Last night's scores: Cardinals 12, Mahanoy City 11. Bloomington 9, Peekskill 2.

Port Ewen Trips Baptists to Win Federation Title

The Port Ewen, Reformed Church Men's Club won its second straight Church Federation Softball League championship Thursday night by downing the First Baptists by the score of 6 to 3 at Sahler's Park.

The winners enjoyed two big scoring frames, the second and fifth. A cluster of three runs in the bottom half of the fifth inning broke a 3-3 deadlock.

Bill Ferguson, the Port Ewen flipper, got credit for the win over Doug Harvey. Ferguson pitched himself out of several tight jams and left seven base runners stranded. The pitcher helped his own cause by collecting three hits in as many trips to the plate.

For the second straight game, the Baptists out-hit their rivals but another defensive lapse by the losers set up the scoring plays for Port Ewen. Besemer and Heislner were guilty of errors for the losers.

Bob Hunt, leading hitter during the series, had a perfect night with three hits.

De Marco to Get Test Tonight in Bout Against Pep

New York, Sept. 10 (AP)—Paddy De Marco of Brooklyn, a rising star in the lightweight class, makes his most important start tonight at Madison Square Garden against featherweight champion Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., in a non-title 10-rounder.

Winner of 32 fights in 34 starts in a professional career dating back to 1945, De Marco comes up to the Pep scrap with a string of 21 straight victories. The most impressive links in the success chain were two decisions over Terry Young, rugged New York veteran.

two-thirds of the total number of papers, but less than half the total circulation.
No support for the President's reelection was indicated as yet from 16 states, including the south's Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina. These latter states gave Truman 12 of his 27 newspapers.
The only newspapers which came out for Wallace were the Daily Worker, official Communist organ, in New York, and the York (Pa.) Gazette and Daily.
Eleven per cent of the papers answering said they were not committed.
This magazine said that papers which did not answer included those of the Scripps-Howard and other groups, but that these papers were expected to take their stands later in the campaign.

Will Register for Voting
Albany, N. Y., Sept. 10 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey went to New York city today to register for the November election and to chart more campaign strategy.
The Republican presidential nominee and Mrs. Dewey arranged to register before the regular time this year because they will be out of the state then on the campaign tour. They are legal residents of New York.

The governor plans to stay overnight in New York for a conference tomorrow morning with Gov. Robert F. Bradford of Massachusetts. Dewey will go to his farm home at Pawling, N. Y., for a final week-end of rest before his campaign gets underway.
He will leave Albany Sept. 19 for Des Moines, Iowa, where he will make his first major address the next night. From Iowa he will swing to the west coast on a two-week tour.

Dewey aides said he was pleased by the pledge of support yesterday by the executive board of the Building Service Employees' International Union, which claims 175,000 members. It was Dewey's first wedge in the labor backing which has been going generally to President Truman.

Meanwhile, Dewey had nothing to say on the statements by Mr. Truman and Secretary of State Marshall that a bi-partisan agreement has been reached on United States policy dealing with the disposition of Italy's pre-war colonies.

"The governor's office," said James C. Hagerly, Dewey's press secretary, "will have no comment."

Last month Dewey came out in favor of giving Italy an opportunity to develop the resources of her former colonies "under the flexible provisions of a United Nations trusteeship."

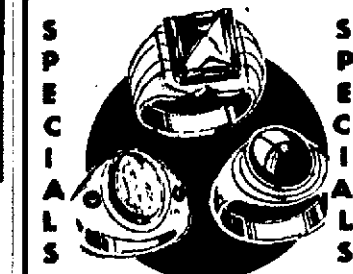

Mr. Truman then commented that it was a matter which could not be handled politically in the United States. And Dewey, through his secretary, retorted that he regarded it as his "solemn obligation to discuss his views on foreign policy 'fully and frankly.'"

Farmers' Assets Are 122 Billions in Period

Washington, Sept. 10 (AP)—Farmer's assets reached $122,300,000,000 the first of this year, nearly $12,000,000,000 above the $110,500,000,000 listed Jan. 1, 1947, the Agriculture Department reports.
In its new balance sheet of agriculture, the department shows farm assets as shaping up this way:
On Jan. 1, 1948, farm real estate values totaled $62,800,000,000, as compared with $58,600,000,000 on that date in 1947.
Other physical assets on farms totaled $37,200,000,000 this January, a sharp jump over the $30,700,000,000 of Jan. 1, 1947.
Liquid financial assets—currency, bank deposits, and U. S. Savings Bonds—edged upward to $22,300,000,000 from $21,200,000,000 last year.

the inhabitants as the poisonous gases started spewing from the volcano.

Aleazar's message said: "The volcano emitted heavy smoke about 7 p. m. yesterday with traces of halogen gas possibly chlorine detected. I considered the situation serious enough to warrant extreme precautionary measures. Ash particles were acidic and the air had a yellowish tinge during the activity. There were no casualties from last night's activity."

Anxious authorities in Manila, fearing a disaster without precedent in the Philippines, had two reasons to hope.
One was that the southwest monsoon should be blowing there now. If so it would be blowing the dangerous gases away from the southeast shore where the refugees are huddling waiting for rescue.

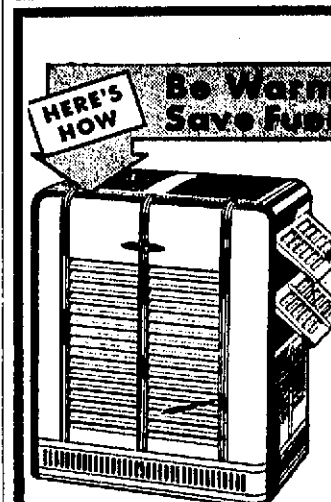

The other was that only about nine miles of sea separate Camiguin from Mindanao. There are numerous small boats in the area capable of shuttling across this strip of water with refugees. A few ships also are available at the port of Cagayan, about 45 miles to the south.

Aleazar's dramatic appeal for a mass evacuation of the island came unexpectedly. The volcano had subsided yesterday. Some refugees actually had started back home.

Aleazar had warned earlier this week that the volcano might spew poisonous gases at any time. Deadly gases killed 1,300 Filipinos during an eruption of Taal volcano near Manila in 1911.

Bombers Are Reported

Copenhagen, Sept. 10 (AP)—Russian bombers roared over the Danish island of Bornholm this morning for the second straight day. Cause of Injury To Film Actress Checked by Police Hollywood, Sept. 10 (AP)—Blond Rita Johnson, once considered as a successor to the late Jean Harlow, is in critical condition today with a brain injury suffered mysteriously four days ago.

The 35-year-old film actress last night underwent delicate surgery in which three specialists removed a blood clot pressing on her brain. She was under anesthetic 3 1/2 hours at St. Vincent's Hospital in Los Angeles. Thereafter her condition was reported slightly improved.

Hollywood Police Detectives Knox Weaver and Al Goossen began an investigation to determine what it was that might have struck Miss Johnson's head in her apartment apparently between the hours of 4:30 and 6 p. m. Monday.

Miss Johnson's friend, actress Mary Ainslee, related that Monday afternoon Miss Johnson telephoned to say she would be a little late for a cocktail party because she was washing her hair. Miss Ainslee called at Miss Johnson's apartment about 6 p. m. Miss Johnson greeted Miss Ainslee by saying, "I bumped my head. It hurts terribly."

Miss Johnson partially collapsed andapsed into unconsciousness before saying how she was injured.

Miss Ainslee said she was unable to get an ambulance and called in her own physician, Dr. Philip Erenberg, that evening. Then Miss Johnson's physician, Dr. Lee Siegel, was called. Dr. Siegel said Miss Johnson had a large lump on her head, a bruised lip and was suffering from brain concussion.

A maid offered a possible clue to the mystery, saying a hair dryer in Miss Johnson's apartment had slipped before and might have again, striking the actress on the head.

Miss Johnson's brother, William, arrived from Chicago last night. Her mother, Mrs. Lillian Johnson, planned to fly today from Worcester, Mass., where the actress was born and began her theatrical career.

Miss Johnson, formerly married to L. Stanley Kahn, New York businessman, has been in Hollywood about 10 years. Her recent pictures included "The Big Clock" and "Sleep, My Love," and also appeared in "Parton of the Past" and "Edison, the Man." She was first hailed as a star, but later were dropped.
